Why single out Morse as the only mode to be specifically tested? I favor total elimination of Morse testing. Those who are intetested in the mode will learn it on their own. The rules and examination process should not be a shrine to beloved but outdated technology.